2007

Four Poems: Snakehead Fish; Departures; Capitol; and Preparations for Southeast Asia

Bryan Thao Worra
Lao Assistance Center, thaoworra@aol.com

Follow this and additional works at: http://docs.lib.purdue.edu/jsaaea
Part of the Anthropology Commons, Asian American Studies Commons, and the Critical and Cultural Studies Commons

Recommended Citation
http://dx.doi.org/10.7771/2153-8999.1090

This document has been made available through Purdue e-Pubs, a service of the Purdue University Libraries. Please contact epubs@purdue.edu for additional information.
Four Poems: Snakehead Fish; Departures; Capitol; and Preparations for Southeast Asian

by

Bryan Thao-Worra

Snakehead Fish

When the water's wrong
You just pick up your things,
Suck in a last breath for the old times
And walk all the way to a new pond
So clean you can smell it.

When everything is all right:
You gobble your neighbors up
One at a time like a thresher in frenzy
With a gorged wide-mouth grin, Blimping up till you're long
As a line of five dollar bills.

When we get around to it,
Your passports will be revoked:
Pisces non grata a la America.

We'll have to go back to Asia
To eat you.

On the news they say you're
A tasty reincarnated sinner
And I wonder how karma works out
Like that, making a funny fish face
For my visiting niece over a bowl of sour soup.
Departures

The monks gave us a bag of Thai oranges
Before we left for the States.

        Next time we come, we’ll have learned more Lao,
        We promise.
They promise there will be more to show us the next time.

Sitting outside the Khop Jai Deu
Waiting for our bus to come

Elvis is crooning “Return to Sender”
Because there’s no such number,
And no such home.

        I took a photo of the fountain
        Next to the Scandinavian Bakery,
        Tuk-tuk drivers loitering nearby.

Handing them some fruit,
They ask, “How long are you staying in Laos?”

And I reply,
“This is our last day.”

The sun looks like it could be peeled wide open
While I take a bite of a giant orange,

        Trying to wring out a last memory from this light,
        Wondering when the King’s song is ever going to end

The scent of citrus on my hand
Sinks deeply past my bones,
Trying to harden into an anchor

        The shape of a kind heart.
Vientiane is a memory.
I want to use the word buried, locked inside my mind so tight I barely get any visitation hours.

But Vientiane is more than a memory.

She's alive and so am I.

She's just going on with her life, shaking her head at my foolish Romanticism-

a stale baguette trying to paint her when she was a waif.

While she sends me a hundred worn photographs of her golden spires and muddy feet, I admit, I've barely written back, left to wonder who she's really become and would have been,

had I been there the way
I always think I wanted to.

As if this would make any difference worth mentioning in the mornings of the children born with no memories of me.

Preparations For Southeast Asia

There were children whose curt sense of geography Calculated our destination just south of Pluto.

   Enough turmoil from enigmas. Time for answers.
   Queries to dispel our conjurations of rumor and smoke.

   At least we could say “we went,” “we returned,”
   “We did not stay forever.”

Our hummock of a travel agent
On a corner of University Avenue
Smiled like a hunter’s moon:

   “You don’t need lots of money where you’re going.
   Just a little, and you’ll be living like kings.”

I wanted to utter some vaporous remark
About the life expectancy of Asian royalty,
But simply took my passport and tickets

   Marveling at our modern keys of paper and numeral, Opening doors that might not have been locked as tightly
   As we once believed,

Packing to send our peripatetic hearts hurtling through the atmosphere
Some 600 miles per hour, bent on finding a home

   Our parents alone would recognize.
About the Author

Bryan Thao Worra is the Laotian American author of On The Other Side Of The Eye, Touching Detonations, and The Tuk-Tuk Diaries: My Dinner With Cluster Bombs. He also volunteers as the literary editor for Tripmastermonkey.com, Bakka Magazine and AsianAmericanPoetry.Com. You can learn more about his work by visiting www.myspace.com/thaoworra or writing him at thaoworra@aol.com
Thao Worra – Creative Works

Dr. Kevin K. Kumashiro
University of Illinois, Chicago

Dr. Stacey Lee
University of Wisconsin, Madison

Dr. David Chanpannha Ley
Montgomery County Public Schools

Dr. Sue Needham
California State University, Dominguez Hills

Dr. Bic Ngo
University of Wisconsin-Madison

Dr. Max Niedzwiecki
Rights Working Group

Dr. Leakhena Nou
California State University, Long Beach

Dr. Clara Park
California State University, Northridge

Dr. Mark Pfeifer
Texas A&M University, Corpus Christi

Dr. Loan T. Phan
University of New Hampshire

Dr. Bounlieng Phommasouvanh
Minnesota Department of Education

Dr. Karen Quintiliani
California State University, Long Beach

Dr. Kalyani Rai
University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee

Dr. Fay Shin
California State University, Long Beach

Dr. Nancy J. Smith-Hefner
Boston University

Dr. Yer J. Thao
Portland State University

Dr. Myluong Tran
San Diego State University

Dr. Khatharya Um
University of California, Berkeley

Dr. Linda Trinh Vo
University of California, Irvine

Dr. Terrence G. Wiley
Arizona State University

Dr. Zha Blong Xiong
University of Minnesota

Dr. Kou Yang
California State University, Stanislaus

Doctoral Student

Editorial Review Board

Keo Chea
University of Pennsylvania

Vichet Chhuon
University of California, Santa Barbara

Loan Dao
University of California, Berkeley

Annie BichLoan Duong
San Joaquin County Office of Education

Ha Lam
Arizona State University

Ravy Lao
University of California, Santa Barbara

Vanna Som
Harvard University

Rassamichanh Souryasack
University of California, Santa Barbara

Giang Tang
University of Minnesota

Layheng Ting
State University of New York, Albany

Loan Tran
University of California, Santa Barbara

Phitsamay Sychitkohkhong Uy
Harvard University

Yang Sao Xiong
University of California, Los Angeles

Journal of Southeast Asian American Education & Advancement, 2