The Silent Killer…and the Irreplaceable Role of County Commissioners Room: 322

Presider: Jon Fricker, Professor of Civil Engineering, Purdue University

Although titled The Silent Killer – this session is not about highway fatalities. It is about highway access, access management, and the role of county government. This title emphasizes the fact that unmanaged access quietly and subtly reduces (kills figuratively) the ability of highways to perform their important task. This presentation will attempt to answer the question: “Why is it important for county commissioners to care about managing highway access?” The session will explain how county officials are the only public officials who can directly implement highway access management; not only on county highways, but on INDOT highways as well. See how we can leave a positive legacy by implementing simple, low-cost access management plans. This session will be in plain-English, using photos to visibly and simply explain highway planning and engineering.
