Louisiana State University Press has provided four interesting not-to-miss lists for this issue of Against the Grain: 1) an All-Time bestsellers list; 2) a Civil War bestsellers list; 3) an African-American history bestsellers list; and 4) a Southern history bestsellers list. All of these lists reflect the Press' publishing strengths.

Founded in 1935, and with about 1,000 titles in print on a wide range of topics, the Press concentrates in the areas of humanities and social sciences, Southern studies, French studies, Latin American studies, poetry, music, and political science. Besides publishing about 80 books per year, LSU Press also puts out one journal called the Journal of Macroeconomics. Find a list that interests you and see which titles you might have missed the first time around...
