PROCEEDINGS
OF THE
TWENTY-SIXTH ANNUAL ROAD SCHOOL
HELD AT
PURDUE UNIVERSITY
January 22-26, 1940

Compiled and Edited by
BEN H. PETTY
Professor of Highway Engineering

PURDUE UNIVERSITY
Lafayette, Indiana
TABLE OF CONTENTS

Preface ................................................................. 5
Program ............................................................... 7
Papers—
   The Engineer and the Road, by Gibb Gilchrist, Dean of Engineering, Texas A. & M. College, College Station, Texas .......... 13
   Looking Toward the Future of Indiana Roads, by T. A. Dicus, Chairman, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis ......................... 20
   Pavement Design, by M. R. Keefe, Chief Engineer, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis ......................... 47
   Some Speculations Regarding the Future of Unemployment Relief Through Highway Construction, by John A. Long, Director, County Officials' Division, American Road Builders' Association, Washington, D. C. ......... 52
   Responsibility of the State Highway Commission on State Routes, Both Rural and Urban, by Howard Atcheson, Member, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis .......... 55
   Our Responsibilities on State Roads and Routes Through Cities, by W. P. Cottingham, City Engineer, Gary, Indiana .......... 60
   Fundamentals of Road and Subgrade Stabilization, by W. R. Woolley, Materials Engineer, Public Roads Administration, Chicago, Illinois ....................... 63
   Road-Mix vs. Plant-Mix in Bituminous Road Construction, by J. G. Schaub, Engineer of Construction and Operations, Michigan State Highway Department, Lansing, Michigan .......... 71
   Road-Mix vs. Plant-Mix in Bituminous Road Construction, by Sultan G. Cohen, General Superintendent, McMahan Construction Company, Rochester, Indiana ........ 78
   WPA Co-operation with City and County Officials on Street and Road Improvement, by Stanton T. Bryan, Deputy State Administrator of WPA, Indianapolis .......... 80
   Salvaging Highway Investments, by N. F. Schafer, Engineer of Maintenance, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis ....................... 89
   Salvaging Highway Investments, by Ralph Witt, St. Joseph County Road Supervisor, South Bend, Indiana .............. 94
   Present Status of the Highway-Planning Survey, by G. R. Harr, Associate Highway Engineer, Public Roads Administration, Indianapolis .......... 96
   Present and Future Status of the Farm-to-Market Road Program, by Earl B. Lockridge, Assistant Chief Engineer and Engineer of Construction, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis .......... 101
Present and Future Status of the Farm-to-Market Road Program, by Ernest H. Coffin, Wayne County Road Supervisor, Richmond, Indiana ................................................................. 109

County Planning, by G. E. Lommel, Professor of Topographical Engineering, Purdue University, and Chairman, Indiana State Planning Board ................................................................. 110

Aims and Activities of the Joint Highway Research Project, by F. F. Havey, Engineer of Tests and Materials, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis .................................................. 113

The Highway Commission Goes to Town, by Hallie Myers, Director of Traffic, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis ................................................................. 115

A Proposal for More Uniform Specifications Covering County Engineering Work, by John W. Hildebrand, Marshall County Surveyor, Plymouth, Indiana ...................................................... 128

Selling the Public on Highway Improvement, by Marc G. Waggengen, Publicity Director, State Highway Commission of Indiana, Indianapolis ................................................................. 129

Selling the Public on Highway Improvement, by T. R. Johnston, Director of Information, Purdue University ................................................................. 135

Methods Insuring Smoother and More Durable Bituminous Road Surfaces, by Ernest H. Coffin, Wayne County Road Supervisor, Richmond, Indiana ................................................................. 137

Road Equipment, by S. R. Laughlin, Kosciusko County Road Supervisor, Warsaw, Indiana ................................................................. 139

County Highway Equipment, by Alfred Krause, Franklin County Surveyor and Road Supervisor, Brookville, Indiana ................................................................. 140

Progress in the Control of Stream Pollution in Indiana, by B. A. Poole, Chief Engineer, Indiana State Board of Health, Indianapolis ................................................................. 142

Control of Stream Pollution as Applied to the City of Peru, Indiana, by Harrold E. Norris, Superintendent of Streets, Peru, Indiana ................................................................. 149

CCC Drainage Co-operation, by A. T. Fahl, Huntington County Surveyor, Huntington, Indiana ................................................................. 152

Publications of the Engineering Extension Department ................................................................. 158