Features

ALA Issue — Guest Editor, Rick Lugg

The Amazon Effect ..................................... 22
Virtual Approval Plans, and the Changing Nature of Book Selection by Rick Lugg and Ruth Fischer — These feature articles deal with library selectors. In order to make timely buying decisions, selectors need detailed information much earlier in the publishing cycle—point of publication, or better yet, at point of announcement.

ONIX ....................................................... 22
A Transforming Standard by Michael Holdsworth — Internet book-selling created almost overnight a need for better descriptive product information. It was a need that the publishing industry simply had not recognized before and which it had no way of satisfying. Enter ONIX.

The Virtual Selection Process .................... 26
The ILS Perspective by Ted Fons — Far from making the ILS irrelevant, the enormous variety of Web-based resources now available to selectors, makes a common interface and a facilitated workflow more important than ever.

The Virtual Approval Shelf ....................... 28
A Look Towards the Future? by Amy McColl and Amy Morrison, Eric Pumroy, Norm Medicine, and Linda Bills — The libraries of the Tri-College Consortium (Bryn Mawr, Haverford, and Swarthmore Colleges) have been involved in a planning grant funded by the Mellon Foundation from Summer 2001 through Spring 2002.

The Decline of the Poultry Selector ........... 32
Thoughts on the Virtual Approval Plan by Stephen Pugh — What is a virtual approval plan? Will monographs acquisition increasingly resemble the packaged structures already common with ebooks and journals—with the package represented by the profile?

Op Ed — Opinions and Editorials .............. 36
The Dullegi Op Eds — A debate about embargoes and the necessity of keeping print because of them. — Random Rauntings and Ravings: My Thoughts on E-journals by Allison P. Mays and Drive, She Said: But Who or What is Really in Control? by Larry Madison

Back Talk — Memory Lane: ...................... 86
It's Budget Time! by Anthony Ferguson — Spreadsheets? Computer crashes? Sound familiar? Tony has done — and is still doing— budgeting?

ATG Interviews and Profiles Encouraged

John Kennerly ........................................... 38
Library Director, McCain Library, Erskine College and Theological Seminary

Book Reviews ......................................... 50
Monographic Musings by Debbie Vaughn — In this issue, read about daily life throughout our history, American musical theatre, and cozy politics.

Reviews

From the Reference Desk ......................... 46
By Tom Gilson — The Encyclopedia of Crime and Punishment: Oxford Companion to Twentieth Century British Politics: Martial Arts of the World: An Encyclopedia; and The Statistical Handbook on the World's Children are just some of the reference titles reviewed this month.

Legal Issues

Edited by Bryan Carson, Bruce Strauch, and Jack Montgomery

Cases of Note .......................................... 54
Punitive Get Whacked by Bruce Strauch — Leatherman Tool Group, Inc. v. Cooper Industries, Inc., Harry Palmer, Star’s Edge, Inc. v. Eldon Braun

Questions and Answers ............................ 58
Copyright Column by Laura Gasaway — Can you send hypertext through email? This is just one of the questions Lolly answers this month.
