WOMEN IN PHYSICS
The IUPAP International Conference on Women in Physics

Edited by Beverly Karplus Hartline and Dongqi Li.
Argonne National Laboratory

This unique Conference Proceedings provides a fascinating snapshot of the issues and challenges facing women physicists today and discusses the actions that must be taken to overcome obstacles to their professional advancement.

The March 2002 conference was organized by the Working Group on Women in Physics, established by the International Union of Pure and Applied Physics (IUPAP). The primary purpose of the conference was to understand the severe under-representation of women in physics worldwide and to develop strategies to increase their participation and impact. Topics covered include attracting girls into physics; launching a successful physics career; getting women into the physics leadership structure nationally and internationally; and balancing family and career.

We may not be the most well-known book distributor, but we do seem to be very popular.

Our customers know about those big book distributors on Wall Street, but they keep coming back for our friendly service here on Main Street.

We may not be one of the corporate giants of the world, but that's just fine with us. Our focus has always been service, not size. We wanted our family business to exhibit the same values of our own family, like hard work, generosity, and kindness. We take good care of the libraries and other customers we serve by tracking down each and every book they request, triple checking orders for accuracy, and making sure we are always available to talk to them in person. We've made it a policy to treat our customers like friends, and as a result, many of them are.

First published in 1879, the Journal of the American Chemical Society set many of the standards in scientific publishing we take for granted today. In 1918, JACS was the first journal to introduce the peer-review system. JACS was also the first journal to refuse to publish manuscripts previously published in other journals.

With the publication of its 125th volume, JACS continues the proud tradition established by its distinguished Editors and authors as the leading venue for original fundamental research in all areas of the chemical and molecular sciences. With 188,911 total cites in 2001*, JACS remains the most cited journal in chemistry. What's more, the CAS Science Spotlight™ named JACS the Most Requested Journal in 2002.

ACS Journal Archives puts 120 volumes of JACS on your desktop

With the Archives, institutional subscribers can immediately access the full text of every issue of JACS from 1879 to your current Web Editions subscription. And you get seamless integration of searches between the Archives and Web Editions. For more information about how ACS Journal Archives provides a cost-effective solution for storage and retrieval of essential chemistry research, go to http://pubs.acs.org/archives.

The First Complete Collection of The Papers of James Monroe

The Papers of James Monroe

A Documentary History of the Presidential Tours of James Monroe, 1817, 1818, 1819

Daniel Preston, Editor

Prepared under the auspices of the James Monroe Presidential Center, Mary Washington College

James Monroe has been the only founding father lacking a modern documentary collection...until now. This landmark 8-volume collection finally gathers Monroe's profuse and widely scattered papers, filling a major gap in American history and granting scholars unprecedented access to a remarkable but oft-neglected president. Volume 1 covers Monroe's presidential tours in 1817, 1818, and 1819, including his correspondence, newspaper accounts, and eyewitness reports.

Volumes 2–8 will be published over the next 15 years
