Would You Like Print With That? — Will Electronic Reference Packages
Supplant Print? .................................... 1
by Frances C. Wilkinson and Linda Lewis
This keynote column began in the Reference Publishing Issue of ATG in 1997. Over the years Linda and Fran have asked librarians and sometimes students and/or publishers a variety of questions of current interest. This year, they thought it would be interesting to look back over the last five years to discover how things have stayed the same or how they have changed.

Aggregation, Integration and the Library Without Walls? ......................... 26
by Adam Hodgkin — Content aggregators are playing an increasingly prominent role in delivering electronic subscription resources to libraries. It is timely to consider some of the advantages that can be conferred by aggregation.

Online Auction Services Orders .......... 30
An Ordnance Librarian’s Reflections on OLAS by Nick J. Vinzelli — The UNG-Chapel Hill Academic Affairs Library began acquiring materials sold through eBay.com auctions. Although the Library had acquired material through auctions in the past, obtaining material from eBay.com established a precedent for the Library, engendering a new workflow that was eventually named OLAS.

Digital Reference: ............................... 34
A New Library Paradigm or the Emperor’s New Clothes by Steve McKinzie and Jonathan D. Lauer — Every so often the library profession losses its head over some peripheral issue and goes bankers, often suggesting that current collection development practices have to be revamped, overloaded or possibly scrapped. It is like that now say, Steve and Jonathan, if you have been following some of the profession’s fascination with digital reference service.

ATG Special Report ............................. 42
Libraries In The Cyberage — Filtering, Censorship and the First Amendment: Libraries at the Crossroads edited by Mark Y. Herrin — In the summer of 2000, Ron Chepesiuk and Mark Herrin sat down with a simple goal: put together a series of forums to discuss the groundbreaking changes that libraries had been through, and would continue to undergo as a result of the advent of the World Wide Web. Out of a series of meetings they ended up with four forums discussing a wide variety of libraries and cyberage issues: Internet filtering, online/electronic publishing and the rush to e-ervize libraries, copyright in the digital age, and the humanities and cyberspace.

Back Talk — Use Statistics ................. 94
by Anthony W. Ferguson — Recently, a university in Hong Kong was taken to task in the press for using public funds to buy and subsequently store lesser-used materials. This university had decided to send books that had not been checked out in six years to a remote storage facility. The newspaper’s reporter implied that some of these books had been little if ever used and questioned why libraries wasted money buying such books in the first place.

REFERENCE PUBLISHING ISSUE

REVIEWS

From the Reference Desk .......................... 69
by Tom Gilson — This month Tom weighs in on the issue of electronic reference publishing with some thoughts on a unique reference work, the Encyclopedia of Life Sciences. What is unusual about this resource is that it is a landmark publishing effort that was initially planned as an electronic product. Only later, due to the advice of librarians and doubts caused by the techno-trama of the dot.com collapse did a print version evolve.

LEGAL ISSUES

Edited by Bryan Carson, Bruce Strauch, and Jack Montgomery

Legally Speaking .................................. 75
Search Warrants and Records: What Libraries and Bookstores Need to Know by Bryan M. Carson — In these days of terrorism and criminal investigation, libraries and bookstores are starting to become concerned with the privacy of their users and the possibility that circulation or sales records will be requested by investigators. Although most states and the District of Columbia have library privacy provisions in their laws, exceptions have always existed for court orders and search warrants. What does this mean for libraries and bookstores?

Questions and Answers .......................... 77
Copyright Column by Laura Gasaway — The library has some 16mm films from the Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) that are used by the Aviation Department. If federal government materials are in the public domain, is it possible to convert the format of the films to video? This is just one of the questions Lolly answers for us this month.

Cases of Note ............................... 78
Commercial Appropriation by Bruce Strauch — Those lusty lads and ladies at Abercrombies are at it again.

PUBLISHING

Biz of Acq .................................. 80
Developing Book Donation Resources by Paul T. Jackson — The Library Director of a prison library in Leaper, Michigan, has developed a library collection almost completely through gifts, acquiring 22,000+ books in three to four years time, with a budget for only 200 books per year.

And They Were There .................................. 83
Reports of Meetings — Trends and Traditions featured at SALALM, 2002 by Christine Mueller — “Trends and Traditions in Latin American and Caribbean History” was the theme of the Forty-seventh meeting of the Seminar on the Acquisition of Latin American Library Materials (SALALM), June 1-4, 2002.

Best Sellers — Reference Titles ........ 84
by Françoise Crowell — This is the second year Françoise has compiled a list of YBPs best selling reference titles and she thought it might be interesting to compare the two lists.

BOOKSELLING AND VENDING

Talk of the Trade ............... 85
by Barry Fast — Barry is back as a regular ATG columnist! He says that the Book Trade may not be as glitzy as The Industry (Hollywood), but there is more than enough gossip to share.

How the Other Half Lives: ............. 87
My Experience in Crossing Over to the Vendor Side by Allison P. May — Allison represented Serials Solutions at a MINITEX meeting. She tells us all about it.
