February 2012

If Rumors Were Horses

Katina Strauch

Follow this and additional works at: https://docs.lib.purdue.edu/atg

Part of the  Library and Information Science Commons

Recommended Citation

DOI: https://doi.org/10.7771/2380-176X.6071

This document has been made available through Purdue e-Pubs, a service of the Purdue University Libraries. Please contact epubs@purdue.edu for additional information.
Preserving History and Demonstrating Library Excellence at Historically Black Colleges and Universities

by Shanesha R. F. Brooks-Tatum (Project Coordinator/Writer, HBCU Library Alliance, 1438 West Peachtree Street NW, Suite 200, Atlanta, GA 30309) <sbrooks-tatum@hbculibraries.org>

The success stories of the more than 100 participating Historically Black Colleges and Universities’ libraries involving nearly 300,000 students in 22 states are being captured through the Atlanta-based Historically Black Colleges and University (HBCU) Library Alliance’s “Preserving Our History” project. The two-year effort is funded by a $70,000 grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation, the first grant awarded directly to Alliance in January 2011. The goal is to document and disseminate the Alliance’s history, highlight member success stories, contribute to the literature about libraries and HBCUs, and provide a model of collaboration for other libraries, particularly in Africa and the Caribbean.

The HBCU Library Alliance, the center for academic library growth and reflection, was established in 2002 with support from LYRASIS, then SOLINET, and has continued to provide an array of training and development opportunities for member institutions, including photographic preservation, reports, assessments, and leadership workshops.

The project involves nine success stories. We will focus in detail on seven: Claflin University (Orangeburg, SC); Delaware State University (Dover); Fayetteville State University (NC); Savannah State University (GA); Southern University and A&M College (Baton Rouge, LA); University of Maryland Eastern Shore (Princess Anne); and Virginia State University (Petersburg). The other two stories feature the Atlanta University Center and the University of the Virgin Islands, and are printed in the January/February 2012 edition of American Libraries.

For more information, visit hbculibraries.org.

If Rumors Were Horses

The awesome and fantabulous and smiling David Nicholas has been appointed Adjunct Professor in the School of Information Sciences, College of Communication and Information, at the University of Tennessee Knoxville. The new adjunct professor of merit will work with SIS Faculty and the Center for Information and Communication Studies on research studies, especially those focusing on scholarly communication, mobile information, and behavior in the digital space. Dave, who will continue to be based in the UK, will be seeking grants in partnership with people like the incredible how-does-she-publish-all-that-she-

LYRASIS, then SOLINET, and has continued to provide an array of training and development opportunities for member institutions, including photographic preservation, reports, assessments, and leadership workshops.

The project involves nine success stories. We will focus in detail on seven: Claflin University (Orangeburg, SC); Delaware State University (Dover); Fayetteville State University (NC); Savannah State University (GA); Southern University and A&M College (Baton Rouge, LA); University of Maryland Eastern Shore (Princess Anne); and Virginia State University (Petersburg). The other two stories feature the Atlanta University Center and the University of the Virgin Islands, and are printed in the January/February 2012 edition of American Libraries.

For more information, visit hbculibraries.org.

If Rumors Were Horses

The awesome and fantabulous and smiling David Nicholas has been appointed Adjunct Professor in the School of Information Sciences, College of Communication and Information, at the University of Tennessee Knoxville. The new adjunct professor of merit will work with SIS Faculty and the Center for Information and Communication Studies on research studies, especially those focusing on scholarly communication, mobile information, and behavior in the digital space. Dave, who will continue to be based in the UK, will be seeking grants in partnership with people like the incredible how-does-she-publish-all-that-she-does Carol Tenopir. http://www.ciber-research.eu

Wonder what happened to the vivacious, enthusiastic Diane Kerr? Just found out via the Bookseller that Diane has been appointed Managing Director of Blackwell Library Services as of 11 July. Diane has been “tasked with making Blackwell Library Services more customer-focused while accelerating its eBook strategy.”

Was talking to the energetic and vibrant Vicki Cohn (Executive Vice President & Managing Editor, Mary Ann Liebert, Inc., publishers) the other day. She reminded me that her son, Kevin Cohn, works at Atypon as Director of Operations. Kevin has spoken at the Charleston Conference several times!
February in Charleston is exciting because we host the Southeastern Wildlife Exhibition which is reportedly the largest wildlife art/nature event in the nation. SEWE happens once a year in Charleston. Even though we had rain on Sunday ☨ we made the most of it and worked on this issue of \textit{ATG} instead! Preserving History and Demonstrating Library Excellence at Historically Black Colleges and Universities is the subject of the eight feature articles in this issue guest edited by the able Shanesha R. F.Brooks-Tatum. Articles explore initiatives at Claflin University, Delaware State University, Fayetteville State University, Savannah State University, South University and A & M College in Baton Rouge, University of Maryland Eastern Shore and Virginia State University.

Our \textit{Op Ed} is by Bob Holley who talks about the potential demise of traditional collection development (I say no way!), our \textit{Back Talk} by the retired but still working Tony Ferguson is about, guess what, The Unemployed Librarian. Our profiles are from Rick Lugg and Ruth Fischer, Amy Hoseth, and Roula Awad-Harb and our interviews are with Tracey Armstrong of Copyright Clearance Center and Rick Lugg and Ruth Fischer and their new venture, Sustainable Collection Services. We have a couple of publisher profiles as well. Our book review is about Michael Gorman’s book, \textit{Broken Pieces}. (He was the only Charleston Conference speaker to get a rousing standing ovation!). We have copyright questions and answers by Lolly Gasaway, legally speaking by Bill Hannay covering the eBook price-fixing lawsuits in the courts, a \textit{Biz of Acq} regarding ERMS, a \textit{Booklover} about Tomas Gösta Tranströmer, Xan Arch writes about E-textbooks and the technologies that the library uses in contrast to those used by campus IT departments, Tom Leonhardt has a charming column about book people he has known and Bob Nardini talks about the virtual and physical worlds.

It’s quit raining for a minute and I want to head to the SEWE finale so I am off! Remember, Spring is not far away. Happy March!

Love, Yr. Ed.

---

\textbf{Letters to the Editor}

Send letters to <kstrauch@comcast.net>, phone or fax 843-723-3536, or snail mail: \textit{Against the Grain}, MSC 98, The Citadel, Charleston, SC 29409. You can also send a letter to the editor from the \textit{ATG Homepage} at \url{http://www.against-the-grain.com}.

\textbf{Dear Editor:}

Just a short letter to thank you for your continued excellence in your publication, \textit{Against the Grain} which I read faithfully.

Second, I write to let you know that I have just been elected an officer of the William Morris Society in the U.S. My position is vice president for public relations and membership, and I would be thankful if you would point your many readers to our Webpage \url{www.morrisociety.org}.

Finally, I write to say how much I enjoyed and agreed with the \textit{Op Ed} article by S. David Mash, “The Death of the Bookless Library,” which appeared in the December 2011-January 2012 issue of \textit{ATG}. I recall a meeting I had at least 15 years ago with a colleague at Blackwells who was telling me the wonders of his then new, and most up-to-date e-reader.

To quote him: “Jack, it is just wonderful. On this little machine I can read any of 10,000 books while I am on vacation in Mexico.” To which I replied: “That’s just great, but I take along about five paperbacks on my vacation, and that’s about all I can read at once!”

All the best, Jack Walsdorf

\texttt{<jackjuno@teleport.com>}

---

\textbf{AGAINST THE GRAIN DEADLINES}

\textbf{VOLUME 24 — 2012-2013}

\textbf{2012 Events} & \textbf{Issue} & \textbf{Ad Reservation} & \textbf{Camera-Ready} \\
\hline
MLA, SLA, Book Expo & April 2012 & 02/24/12 & 03/16/12 \\
ALA Annual & June 2012 & 04/05/12 & 04/26/12 \\
Reference Publishing & September 2012 & 06/22/12 & 07/13/12 \\
Charleston Conference & November 2012 & 08/22/12 & 09/12/12 \\
\hline

\textbf{FOR MORE INFORMATION CONTACT}

\texttt{Toni Nix <justwrite@lowcountry.com>}; Phone: 843-835-8604; Fax: 843-835-5892; USPS Address: P.O. Box 412, Cottageville, SC 29435; FedEx/UPS ship to: 398 Crab Apple Lane, Ridgeville, SC 29472. ☎

---

\textbf{Rumors from page 1}

Just learned that the quietly brilliant Heather Miller is retiring from SUNY Albany this February 29 and the Charleston Conference for which she has been a Director for over 25 years! Heather’s husband Norton died in November and she is moving to New Hampshire where she and Norton had planned to retire. She says that she has to clear out and remodel her current house of 29 years (can’t imagine!) and learn how to live as a retired person. Heather’s son Andrew (a veterinary pathologist) and his wife Allison (an equine veterinarian), and Natalie (their nine-month-old happy, agreeable baby, pictures upcoming in a future \textit{ATG}) live in Southborough, Massachusetts. The other morning Heather’s staff presented her with a beautiful handmade quilt and cross-stitched card. (Heather says she does enough of that sort of thing to understand the magnitude of the commitment of time and effort that these gifts represent.) Y’all, this news brought tears to my eyes! Heather says her email address will remain in effect after she retires, one of the perks of emerita faculty status, so she will not be out of touch. We certainly hope not!

Speaking of Heather, did you notice her job description on the \textit{ATG NewsChannel}? \url{http://www.against-the-grain.com/?s=albany}

The calm and energetic Deb Vaughn — \textit{ATG’s} book reviewer par excellence as well as \textit{Director of Undergraduate Academic Studies} at the College of Charleston — is moving to Clemson, SC, where she and her husband Bo grew up and their parents still live. Deb will be working remotely for the College (isn’t this virtual business cool?) and also commuting back and forth until the end of the term. As an added plus, in their spare time, Deb and Bo are going to have another baby — due in mid-July! They are very excited (especially Helen, who is old enough to understand that continued on page 18
“LibGuides must be in line with course curricula,” Dr. Rebecca Batson, Library Dean, explained. Gretchen Starling, Librarian, explained that many courses are taught from LibGuides: “No matter what course it is, LibGuides make it easy to show students what resources are available, and it is something that they can easily come back to on their own time.” Some LibGuide material is specific to certain audiences, such as the New Student Orientation pages, whereas other guides (such as Ronald Davis’s “Going Green” LibGuide) are used by individuals all over the world. “It’s something that offers a different and contemporary perspective on world issues,” stated Davis.

Library staff keeps statistics on which LibGuides are used most. The top ten LibGuides are advertised on the main library Website. LibGuides direct students to general areas while staff members search for specialized information to address their queries. “Often, students will find the answers that they are looking for in the LibGuides, which enables us to move on and help other patrons,” Mr. Charlot explained.

LibGuides are not only a way to address short staffing, but also a way to standardize messaging to patrons. “Through LibGuides, we are able to be consistent with our communications,” explained Dr. Rebecca Batson, Library Dean. Recently, the library staff has been focused on streamlining pages and standardizing them to make sure that they fit the library’s mission. “Our mission is to increase student access, and one way to increase student access is through standardization,” said Charlot. Library staff engage in LibGuide quality control not only by standardizing the information offered in each guide, but also by unpublishing LibGuides that do not get many hits and by addressing data from feedback forms and surveys.

How does Jason Library ensure consistent and accurate messaging? LibGuides are reviewed every semester by librarians to ensure accuracy. Librarians continue to revise them to ensure that the most up-to-date information is publicized. Every semester, the staff runs an in-depth report on the LibGuides that assesses their needs for new ones.

Additionally, new librarians are trained in using and creating LibGuides. “We want to make sure that there is consistency across the LibGuides, even though they refer students to different resources. We also refer to other institutions’ LibGuides as we market and create our unique LibGuide branding,” explained Mr. Charlot.

LibGuides have been especially useful for the satellite campuses (in Wilmington and Georgetown), online students residing in other countries, and students working late at night from their dorm rooms. “We include interactive videos on most of our LibGuides, which explain how to use a database. Students can have private tutorials even at 2:00 a.m.”, Rosamond Panda, Reference and Public Services Librarian, explained.

What librarians like about LibGuides is the flexibility. The system allows them to update guides on their own time. Variations within standardizations reflect the different personalities of instructors. Some librarians create and upload humorous tutorial videos with skits and jokes that entertain while instructing viewers. Sarah Katz, a new librarian, is focused on making her LibGuides user-friendly by including an overview on the first page and linking to LibGuides in other subject areas.

“LibGuides do not take the place of person-to-person contact,” Charlot noted. The system acts as a funnel to bring students into the library. Students are often asked to come into the library to address questions that are more detailed. LibGuides enable librarians to dedicate more time to answering higher-level, more rigorous questions. They assist students and faculty in obtaining gateway information more quickly so that they have more time and resources to produce quality work.

LibGuides not only assist in instruction but also provide an outreach tool to help publicize each subject area with which librarians can assist. Mr. Charlot explained: “LibGuides also help bring patrons into the library for print resources that they see on the LibGuides. They bring a whole new group of library users.”

To learn more, visit http://www.desu.edu/library.
Savannah State as information literate and civically engaged citizens of the world. Librarians are recognized as fellow teachers on campus, assigned to colleges, academic departments, and/or programs on campus through the Library Liaison Program.

Savannah State faculty members were paid a stipend with an understanding that they would incorporate information literacy into their courses. Lauren MacMillan, Collection Development Librarian and Liaison for the Social Sciences, particularly helped spearhead this effort through the assessment of programs. As illustrated in Table 1, the Information Literacy Program has grown tremendously.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Academic Year</th>
<th>Classes</th>
<th>Students</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>2008-2009</td>
<td>47</td>
<td>852</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2010-2011</td>
<td>165</td>
<td>3410</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The Asa H. Gordon Library applied for a two-year grant as a part of the university’s Title III award to implement the program. But first, library staff had to secure university support to apply for the grant. “Think outside of the box when it comes to funding programs,” Fayoyin suggests. “Everyone is asking for funds. Find seed money to prove that your program is important and needed, and to ensure that it will be successful,” she adds. Because of its success, the Information Literacy Program has become institutionalized and is funded out of the university’s state budget allocation.

In order to determine the degree of success achieved, library staff engage in continuous multilevel assessment of all programming, initiatives, and special activities at the library. Student learning outcomes are assessed using the Project SAILS (Standard Assessment of Information Literacy Skills) exam. Pre- and post-testing documents students’ information literacy skills and proficiency levels and pinpoints areas needing improvement.

Data on user satisfaction are collected through the suggestion board, the comment section of the library Website, surveys, and LibQual, a survey tool created for academic libraries. User satisfaction surveys run continuously, not just at set times during the semester or academic year, and replies are posted to the suggestion board and library Website. “When patrons know that you are honestly interested in what they think and how they feel, and that you are open to receiving their feedback at any time, this builds open, genuine relationships that lead to more innovative transformations,” Fayoyin remarked.

Some of these transformations include building a café in the library, designing a presentation/collaboration area, providing space for the ReWrite Center, creating a Gallery to celebrate African art, and maintaining up-to-date technology in the library’s computer lab, which is open longer than any other lab on campus. To ensure that the technology remains in working order, three staff members — James Scott, James Stephens, and Hunt Luker — agreed to take on the added responsibility of maintaining lab computers. While the library is not able to meet every single need, library staff do their best to compromise by understanding the circumstances informing each request and deciding on what will benefit the most patrons. This helps ensure the delivery of excellent customer service.

Now, librarians at Savannah State sit on several campus committees, and Fayoyin sits on the Deans’ Council. “We have a say in the University’s strategic planning and budgeting committees. We’re able to affect change in a greater way,” said Fayoyin.

In this age of swift technological changes and austere economic cuts, libraries cannot continue to do things “the same old way,” Fayoyin further explained. “We need to continuously critically examine what we are doing and change the ways that we practice librarianship in order to meet the needs of our patrons.”

To learn more, visit http://library.savannahstate.edu.

Shown below is Ms. Mary Jo Fayoyin as she leads a library instruction session. Photo courtesy of Asa H. Gordon Library, Savannah State University.

The magnificent Digby Sales (University of Cape Town) wrote that he already has the okay to attend the 32nd Charleston Conference, November 7-10, 2012! Do you? Digby says that he had a great Christmas holiday with all of his siblings and most of his nieces and nephews. And since then he has been very busy! There is a new UCT Executive Director, Ms. Gwenda Thomas who started work at the beginning of November. As one of two acting deputy directors, Digby has helped as much as possible in both advising as well as taking on new responsibilities without giving up the old ones! http://www.lib.uct.ac.za/

continued on page 29
How to avoid that empty-shelf feeling

EMERY-PRATT’S EARLY RELEASE PROGRAM HELPS YOU AVOID EMPTY SHELVES — AND UNHAPPY PATRONS — BY GETTING THE NEWEST RELEASES TO YOU ASAP.

It’s probably happened too many times. An eagerly-awaited release date for a new title comes and goes — yet you’re still waiting for your copies to arrive. But now there’s a way to prevent missed releases, empty shelves, and disappointed patrons. It’s Emery-Pratt’s Early Release program, and it will help put the latest release onto your shelves faster than ever before.

With Early Release, new titles are shipped to you as soon as we get them from the publishers. So they’ll be on your shelves when your patrons expect them, and in advance of official release dates.

There are no hidden charges or fees, and you can still take full advantage of any and all discounts.

Sign up is easy. Simply call our toll-free number at 1.800.248.3887

THE NICEST PEOPLE IN THE BOOK BUSINESS

1966 West M-21, Owosso, MI 48867-1397
Phone (toll-free) 1.800.248.3887
Fax (toll-free) 1.800.523.6379
E-mail: mail@emery-pratt.com

Virginia State University ...
from page 28

Other collections include the papers of Billy Taylor, an international jazz artist, and Yale Lewis, a local DJ who interviewed renowned musicians. The Library owns the Prince Edward County Virginia Desegregation Case Materials and the Virginia Teachers Association Papers.

The Library uses Twitter, a Special Collections and Archives blog, and a Facebook page to market its collections. “Utilizing social media outlets is very important in letting the world know about the valuable materials we have at VSU,” Weatherington stated. Through rigorous and innovative digitization efforts, Virginia State University ensures the preservation of not only its institutional history, but also the achievements of African Americans in education, the arts, public policy, and other arenas.

For more information about the VSU Special Collections and Archives Department, visit http://library.vsu.edu/special_collections.html.

A student studies in the library. Photo courtesy of Virginia State University.

Rumors
from page 24

Someone was asking me the dates of the 2012 Charleston Conference — November 7-10, 2012. However, if you forget, the dates of conferences through 2017 are posted at the bottom of the conference Website. Should we move them up to the top of the page? http://www.katina.info/conference

Still, the ATG NewsChannel is linked from the Charleston Conference Website and vice versa. Are you keeping up with all the news? For example, did you see the news of the Phablet — a phone with a screen big enough to be used as a tablet. Samsung is coming out with this Android-powered smartphone with other extra features. Will this be the next big device? http://features.techworld.com/mobile-wireless/3338767/era-of-phablet-doing-everything-with-one-mobile-device/

continued on page 31

You’re servicing a specialized market. So are we. In fact, we offer one of the most comprehensive selections for medicine, nursing and allied health on today’s market. No matter what health-sciences content you’re looking for, we have it all in the format you need.

Save Money
Take advantage of our free freight and competitive discounts.

Save Time
We’re your one-stop shop for print and eContent from leading health-sciences publishers. Purchase easily through our online ordering system.

Manage Smartly
Build a solid collection with our enhanced Online Approval Plan, Core Collection Update Program and Doody’s Core Titles subscription access.

If you haven’t seen us lately, don’t wait. Visit us today.

800-345-6425
Rittenhouse.com
R2Library.com

511 Feheley Drive | King of Prussia, PA 19406

Op Ed
from page 30

students don’t arrive in the library with lists of what they want to read or what they need for their school assignments. They also don’t use the catalog to select among the available eBooks. According to my school librarian spouse, some high school students suggest books, but I expect that, for most of them, their interests are elsewhere than choosing books for the collection in either type of library.

Public libraries will also need to continue to build collections that meet the needs of their patrons as they walk through the door. Except for the large public research libraries and some users in other public libraries, people arrive with the goal of having their questions answered right then or of taking something interesting home to read from what is currently available. The public library must have the right stuff on-hand and also anticipate high demand for popular items. Services exist that can supply bestsellers automatically and eBook collections might meet some needs, but the person wanting a good mystery is most likely going to expect to find it on the shelf rather than having to ask for its purchase. In this sense, they are a bit like the undergraduate students above who want to browse among available materials and not wait for a special order.

As for teaching collection development, what should I do? I think that my course, which does include increasing emphasis upon digital resources of all types, remains relevant for all types of libraries except some academic research libraries. For these libraries, I have several thoughts on the subject. First, many students wind up working in libraries that weren’t their first choice so that the students headed for an academic research library might find themselves working somewhere else. In this economy, casting a broad net for all types of jobs is a good strategy. Second, I could try to find alternate content for these groups. Last semester, one of the groups pretending to be a large research library was expected to buy materials for the undergraduate library as well as the graduate research library. Third, I also teach the academic libraries course and could work with the other instructors to make sure that the remaining collection development aspects, mostly digital resources of all types, get covered in that course. I am concerned that some key aspects taught in collection development such as identifying and serving patron needs and socialization issues such as intellectual freedom remain important enough to be reaffirmed in as many parts of the curriculum as possible.

I’ve never seen such a rapid period of change in my forty-year career as an academic librarian and library science professor. Perhaps the pace of the change will slow down, but other events such as the rise of eBooks as the new publishing model will most likely reward the nimble for the foreseeable future.

Rumors
from page 29

Talking of reminiscing, I got an email from a person by the name of Steve Johnson <stevejzoo@gmail.com> (also <steve@arlis.org>) today. Some of you may remember another Steve Johnson who was head of acquisitions and gifts at Clemson (and who was a student at Georgetown with Bill Clinton). That Clemson Steve Johnson was the first layout person par excellence for Against the Grain, back in 1989 when it was only 10 pages. Steve had his own beer newsletter and regional beer guides so he knew all about publishing and laying out a newsletter. In fact, Clemson Steve used to bartend a beer-tasting evening for Charleston Conference attendees. Those were the days! Anyway, Clemson Steve retired several years ago and moved to Costa Rica with his wife whose family lives there. The other Steve Johnson (should I say the “new” Steve Johnson) who I just got an email from tells me that the Clemson Steve blogs at http://crgardening.blogspot.com. And I have it! Instead of the new Steve I am going to call this Steve the continued on page 39
At Eastern Book Company, we’ve spent more than half a century shaping our unique brand of service. The first step is fulfilling our customers’ orders with unmatched speed and accuracy. Then we custom-fit our operations to our customers’ needs, allowing libraries to streamline processes and maximize budgets. And finally, we cultivate next-generation technologies to help our customers build the libraries their users need.

The science of service.

Eastern Book Company

1-800-937-0331
www.ebc.com

---

Rumors

from page 31

Alaska Steve since he lives in Alaska and tells me it’s cold up there in the north!

Was talking to the smilingly earnest Thomas Guignard (Collection Development and Academic Scientific Information and Libraries Support at the Ecole Polytechnique Federale de Lausanne) the other day. He presented a paper in Charleston a few years ago and I had breakfast with him at the 13th Fiesole Retreat in St. Petersburg, Russia, in May of last year. His daughter is almost two and Thomas says she truly is the sunshine of his and his wife’s lives. The other baby currently on the way, Thomas says, is his wife’s PhD dissertation! The Fiesole group is still hoping to have a future Retreat in Lausanne. http://people.epfl.ch/thomas.guignard

And returning to news of St. Petersburg, there is a report about IFLA in this issue (see p.51) from Fred Lynden, remember him? Fred used to be Director of Scholarly Communications (back when that was a very new title) at Brown a few years back. Well he has now retired and is married to Irina Lynden who is Deputy Director of the National Library of Russia. In fact Irina’s boss Anton Likhamonov was our gracious host at the 13th Fiesole Retreat in St. Petersburg last year. What an experience and what a lovely and historic city. Fred and Irina are even coming to the 14th Fiesole Retreat in Fiesole Italy in April. For more information about the Retreats (including many of the papers) visit http://www.casalini.it/retreat/index.htm.

Speaking of papers, the proceedings of the Charleston Conferences from way back are for sale on Amazon. We get a lot of queries and so I like to keep the info out there! For more info, see this issue, p.67. http://www.amazon.com

Exciting news via Amanda Baker Hirko and Beth Bernhardt! The bam-zowie Tricia Hudson has been promoted to the newly created role of Associate Director of Institutional Support at the Ecol... extended role of Associate Director of Institutional Support... an attorney arguing his own case, a National Guard Judge Advocate General, and an owner of Severe Records. He has written and produced hundreds of works.

Sevier wrote music and lyrics for “Better,” recorded it, and pitched it to big deal recording artists. And Shanna Crooks is just such an artist.

And being completely divorced from current pop culture, I had to go to the Web and find she is a hot-looking blonde who sang “Alive” in the Twilight series.

Despite being a lawyer, Sevier fell into the old oral contract trap and that may very well have launched this whole mess. Crooks recorded the song and Sevier mixed and edited it. Sevier said they were to both hold the copyright, and he “planned” to give her half the royalties.

I mean did they really understand this? And what their respective roles were?

The collaboration worked out so well they did a second recording “Watching Me Leave.” Sevier wrote the music and the pair wrote the lyrics. Crooks peddled the songs to record companies and struck deals with Rich of Richfella Publishing and Muzik Mafia. As part of this, Crooks assigned her copyright to Richfella.

Meanwhile, Severe Records released the songs through CD Baby’s online store and told Crooks he would account to her for her share of sales. Then, like any hasty marriage, they began to squabble.

Rich emailed Muzik Mafia and other members of the music community, accusing Sevier of “illegally selling music.” Musik then got a lawyer to send a cease-and-desist letter accusing Sevier of copyright infringement.

It’s an age of email, and soon the emails were flying. Sevier said he was a co-author of the songs and had a right to exploit them. And anyhow, Crooks’ contribution to “Better” was de minimus.

He’s a lawyer. They use words like that.

They threatened and sassed each other back and forth, and finally Rich taunted Sevier to go ahead and sue. Make my day.

Getting ready for that, Sevier filed copyright on the two songs in his and Crooks’ names. Rich threatened CD Baby, but they wouldn’t knuckle under and kept selling the songs. Meanwhile Crooks and Sevier were spitting at each other. He told her she had “self-entitlement/narcissistic syndrome,” and she gave him a “you’ll never work in this town again” threat. And Rich’s accountant chimed in with the same dire warning.

And on it went. More cease-and-desist letters. Accusations of selling bootleg CDs and unauthorized digital downloads. Counter-accusations of defamation, unjust enrichment, quantum meruit, tortious interference with Sevier’s contract with CD Baby. Muzik said Sevier had no right to Crooks’ picture on Sevore Records Website; Sevier said fair use. Counter-counter-accusations of false endorsement under the Lanham Act and deceptive business practices under Tennessee law.

Whew. Are you tense and worked up? It goes on.

Sevier switched from CD Baby to IODA and their licensing agreement with MySpace allowed Sevier to place digital stores on MySpace.com Websites. Sevier put a digital store on Crooks’ Website.

Certainly a nice “in-your-face” move.

Crooks then posted to all her fans that “a guy named Chris Sevier” was up to no good, had been up to no good in the past, and the stuff he was doing was “clearly wrong, unethical, and down right dirty.” And other insults.

15,000 obsessed fans read this, and as obsessed fans will do, they posted insults and threats against Sevier. He emailed Musik, Rich, and Crooks ordering a correction and unqualified apology. And said civil action was right around the corner.

Rich shot back calling Sevier a bottom feeder with shady business practices and not one to be trusted by the music giants of the town. And rounded it out with: “Everything about your practices in this town is rather disgusting to us, to be perfectly honest. Keep sending us your humorous emails though, we REALLY enjoy getting those! As always, we wish you the best of luck fighting for your share of the table scraps.”

You know, back when you had to write and address a letter and put a stamp on it, insults did not get so frenzied. People would occasionally pause and think about what they were doing.

Any-hoo, Crooks told Apple’s iTunes music store Sevier had no right in the songs, and they were removed. Ditto IODA removed the songs from all their digital music store connections and cut off the distribution agreement with Sevier.

And at last suit was joined. Sevier alleged libel, false light, malicious harassment, intentional infliction of emotional distress, interference with contract, and copyright infringement.

Good grief. Emotional distress or “outrage” in legal shorthand requires stress so bad a reasonable person can’t sustain it. And behavior completely outside the bounds of civilized behavior. This seems to be business as usual, and everyone had quite a good time email ranting.

But that aside, the copyright claim was the hook that got Sevier into the federal court.

Rich et al. moved for dismissal of the copyright claim because (1) Sevier failed to allege any acts of infringement, and (2) you can’t sue a co-owner of copyright or her licensees. The district court agreed with this and said as that disposed of the federal matter all the other mess of claims should go to state court.
Vital Information

Key Products and Services:
75 products, all electronic; the leading vendor of streaming video and audio to libraries. eBook & Audiobook Distribution Services — Products include: Academic Video Online, Music Online, North American Women’s Letters and Diaries, Smithsonian Global Sound, Ethnographic Video Online, Women and Social Movements, and American History in Video.

Core Markets/Clientele: Academic and Public Libraries

Number of Employees: 100

Number of Collections Published Annually:
We publish 5-10 landmark online collections per annum. In the past two years, these have totaled collectively more than one million pages of text, 400,000 audio tracks (the equivalent of 33,000 CDs) and more than 6,000 video titles.

History and Brief Description of Publishing Program
Alexander Street Press publishes award-winning, online collections for scholarly research, teaching, and learning. Our collections are available to library and educational institutions through annual subscription or a one-time purchase of perpetual rights. We specialize in humanities and social sciences, but have recently begun publishing video collections in science, technology, and medicine.

The company was founded in 2000 in Alexandria Virginia by Stephen Rhind-Tutt, Eileen Lawrence, and others to bring together the skills of traditional publishing, librarianship, and software development to create quality electronic collections.

We believe that an electronic publication should:
• Be carefully crafted by expert editors around a specific subject or discipline.
• Detail all materials relevant to the subject, whatever their original form or ownership.
• Contain as many of these materials as possible, in multiple formats if necessary.
• Be indexed with controlled vocabularies for precise, exhaustive searching.
• Provide unique ways of searching, viewing, exploring, and analyzing the material.
• Facilitate contributions from scholars and librarians.
• Be priced to enable unlimited exploration by users.

Alexander Street has now expanded to more than 100 staff based in the U.S., UK, Australia, New Zealand, Brazil, China, and Malaysia. And we love what we do! 🎳

Rumors
from page 43

Just got a great email from Bob Houbeck (Univ. of Michigan, Flint). He tells me that there is an article in the Huffington Post about the 22 hottest Colleges in the country. The article named University of Michigan-Ann Arbor as one of them. They used a picture of the University of Michigan-Flint library as the picture for the post — Bob says the most gorgeous and best-looking library of all the three U. Michigan campuses! Pretty cool! http://www.huffingtonpost.com/2012/02/27/the-hottest-colleges-in-the-country-_n_1303791.html#s728989&title=University_of_Michigan

This issue of ATG has some great stuff in it! I always love the Collecting to the Core articles by the Choice editors. It brings back memories of a Trustee at the College of Charleston who was checking out an ancient computer book from the circulation desk. He implored us to never discard the book because it was a classic. That’s what Collecting to the Core is about and this time the area is physics. This issue, p.60.

There has been lots of discussion and controversy on the Web recently about the Research Works Act just introduced in the U.S. House of Representatives. The always-on-top-of-things, Greg Tananbaum fills us in on p.8, I Hear the Train A Comin’.

And, finally, before I run out of room, the invoices for renewal of your ATG subscription for 2012 (v.24!) are in the mail. If you got an invoice and you attended the 2011 Charleston Conference, you shouldn’t have gotten it. Just drop me a quick email so we can be sure (hopefully) not to bill you again. And please accept my apologies!

Much love, Yr. Ed. 🎳