"Simply put, WCONLINE allows me to do what I most need and like to do much more easily and cost-effectively. Its capabilities enable me to make smarter staffing and scheduling decisions. It has vastly facilitated student appointment-making. It has been customized and upgraded with no hassles. Most importantly, its report capabilities have helped me to demonstrate clearly our center’s success and to argue compellingly for our center’s needs.” Margaret Mika, Director: UWM Writing Center

Statement of Purpose

The Writing Center Journal is an official publication of the International Writing Centers Association, which is an Affiliate of the National Council of Teachers of English. WCJ is published twice a year, in the fall/winter and spring/summer.

The Writing Center Journal's primary purpose is to publish original research of interest to writing center professionals and to those forging connections between writing centers and the wider arenas of rhetoric and composition studies. As a forum for peer-reviewed scholarship, WCJ publishes theoretical and empirical research on a range of practices, pedagogies, and administration associated with writing center work. WCJ aims to reflect the diversity of writing center contexts through its content and, in so doing, encourages submissions focused not only on writing centers in colleges and universities but also in high schools, middle schools, and other environments. In addition, WCJ welcomes announcements of interest and letters responding to WCJ articles.

Subscription and Submission Information

For information about manuscript submission and review, please refer to the “Information for Authors” section at the back of this issue. Information is also available online at http://www.cas.udel.edu/writing-center/journal.

US domestic subscription to The Writing Center Journal is $45 per year with IWCA membership or $70 per year with membership and The Writing Lab Newsletter. Domestic library rate for The Writing Center Journal is $55. International rates higher. To subscribe, review, or change address, please go online to http://www.iwcamembers.org.

Most back issues are available for free download from the Writing Centers Research Project archive (http://casebuilder.rhet.ualr.edu/wcrp/wcjournal/search.cfm). For inquiries about hardcopy back issues, contact the incoming WCJ editors, Michele Eodice, Kerri Jordan, and Steve Price, at writingcenterjournal@ou.edu.
