From Your (last minute lizzie) Editor:

People who know me know that I like having a lot to do but that I am nothing if not a down-to-the-wire person. I always make a resolution about this every new year and sometimes I do better than others. This year I was doing better until my husband had the nerve to get sick and give whatever it was to me. So, that's why this issue is a little late. Anyway, it is wonderful all the same. The hard-working Bev Acreman has put together some great papers about KBART which stands for Knowledge Bases and Related Tools working group. We have articles by Bev, Ed Pentz, Nancy Beals, Alison Mitchell, Sarah

Pearson and Andreas Biefenbach, Julie Zhu, Gary Pollack, Ruth Wells, and Mathew Llewellyn, Christine Stohn, Sherrard Ewing, Sheri Meares, and Paul Moss, Liz Stevenson, Adam Chandler, Graham Stone, and Kate Price. Whew! Our interviews are with Joyce Dixon-Fyle and Douglas Wright. Our op ed is about working together and our special report is about switching to new models. I am excited to introduce a new column Collecting to the Core by Marcus Elmore

and the team at Choice who will tell us about certain classics that never go out of style.

We have a Wandering the Web with gardening sites just in time for spring, Michelle Flinchbaugh and Kate Pitcher tell us all about GIST, the Getting It System Toolkit, and Greg Tananbaum talks with Mary Rose Muccie the Director of JSTOR's Current Scholarship Program. And there's much, much more.

Well, my husband tells me that we are going out tonight and it's nearly 6 PM. Oh well. Last minute lizzie's gotta go.

Happy spring! Love, Yr. Ed. 🐘

but what caught my attention was the discussion of page numbers on electronic devices which Amazon has recently implemented on the Kindle.

<http://newsbreaks.infotoday.com/NewsBreaks/Amazon-Raises-the-Stakes-in-Your-Reading-Experience-The-Platform-War-Continues-74056.asp>

Staying on the page number page (so to speak), there was an article in the Chronicle of Higher Education a few weeks ago (February 6, 2011) about this issue — “E-Books’ varied formats make citations a mess for scholars: Kindle, Nook, and other devices put the same text on a different page,” by Tushar Rae, MLA, APA, and Univ. of Chicago, among others have all come up with alternatives but most scholars aren’t pleased. And what happened? A day later, Amazon announced that they would include page numbers for the Kindle. But will your page number and my page number lead us to the same place? Comments? Seems that the page number problem is just exacerbated by the eBook and the various platforms and reading devices.

See the article — <http://chronicle.com/article/E-Books-Variied-Formats-Make/126246/>.

And while we’re on the Info Today page (see above) need to remind y’all about the Info Today blog, the Conference Circuit. Very good way to keep in touch with conferences and what’s going on in the library world. In fact, the intrepidly thorough Don Hawkins even covered the last 2010 Charleston Conference.

Speaking of the Charleston Conference, we have tentatively (isn’t everything tentative in the electronic arena?) decided on the theme for the 2011 Charleston Conference —
