Guest Editor Ed Collieran (Copyright Clearance Center)

Surviving the Era of Digital Media 1

by Edward Collieran — The Internet and computerization have revolutionized the way information is retrieved, collected and shared, fundamentally altering the ways these tasks are carried out and raising a host of new questions and problems.

Through a "Content Looking Glass" .. 18

Another Way of Looking at Library Licensing of Electronic Content by Corilee Christou and Gail Dykstra — This article offers some tips for ways to take advantage of this new flexibility and the the sense of emerging library-vendor partnerships to get what your users need from the licensing process.

Digital Rights Management: Old Hat or New Wrinkle? 22

Ready or Not, DRM is Dramatically Altering Today's Publishing Landscape by John Cox — The Internet has totally altered the environment in which librarians and publishers strive to disseminate information, creating tensions and uncertainty as people of good faith on all sides wrestle with new questions without clear-cut answers.

Nighttime Musings of a Sleepless Librarian 28

by Ann Okerson — Does the term "digital library" mean that all of our collections will someday be digital? Will readers be able to have the full experience of a contemporary li- brary (and more besides) without going near one of our wonderful library buildings?

Op Ed — Opinions and Editorials ... 30

e-Journals, Embargoes and Other Matters: Are the Publishers Villains or not? by Ian Jacobs and David Bull — In her Op Ed, Random Rantings and Ravings: My Thoughts on E-journals, Embargoes, Etc. (ATG v.14#3 June 2002), Allison Mays expressed some frustrations about embargoes imposed by publishers in aggregators' databases. This month's authors hope to clarify some issues.

ATG Special Report: Part II 32

Libraries In The Cyberage — Filtering, Censorship and the First Amendment: Libraries at the Crossroads edited by Mark Herring — In the summer of 2000, Ron Chepesiuk and Mark Herring sat down with a simple goal: put together a series of forums to discuss the groundbreaking changes that libraries had been, and would continue to undergo as a result of the advent of the World Wide Web. The forums covered in this issue include the conclusion of Carol Clancy's article favoring library filters.

Back Talk — GIS Induced Guilt 94

by Anthony Ferguson — Anthony just returned from the 2002 Pacific Neighborhood Consortium (PNC) meeting held in Osaka Japan. The result of his attendance has him now trying to figure out what he wants to do about GIS.

CHARLESTON CONFERENCE ISSUE

LEGAL ISSUES

Edited by Bryan Carson, Bruce Strauch, and Jack Montgomery

- Legally Speaking 76
- Do We Still need Books for Legal Research? (Why books still matter.) by Bryan Carson — Bryan says several times every day in the course of his work as a librarian, he hears people express the opinion that books are no longer necessary, since "everything is now online." A second opinion that is sometimes heard is that books are unnecessary, and libraries (and librarians) are no longer needed. So what is the truth—are books still needed for legal research? Bryan tell us.
- Questions and Answers 78
- Copyright Column by Laura Gasaway — A librarian has been asked to present a paper at a conference. The association that sponsors the conference has asked her to bring 25 copies of the paper to sell. What copyright symbol should be placed on the copies? This is just one of the questions Lolly answers for us this month.
- Cases of Note 78
- Trademark Dilution by Bruce Strauch — Beanie Babe Battles.

PUBLISHING

- And They Were There 81
- Reports of Meetings — ARLIS/NA 29th Annual Conference by Nina Stephenson — This year the Art Libraries Society of North America met in Los Angeles. The cultural riches of Los Angeles and the dynamic field of art librarianship were showcased with an array of informative program sessions.
- Books Are Us 82
- by Anne Robichaux — This column covers fiction about people like us — librarians, publishers, vendors, booksellers, etc. All contributions are welcome.

BOOKSELLING AND VENDING

- IMHBCO 60
- (In My Humble But Correct Opinion) The Book Is Dead and It's a Good Thing, Too by Rick Anderson — As a group, we librarians are certainly not unique in our ability to deny the obvious. And as upsetting as it may be to state the fact out loud, we've all voted with our budgets and the results of the referendum are clear: books are out.
- Book Pricing Update 82
- Trends in Book Pricing for the year ending June 30, 2002 by Tom Loughran — Each year, Blackwell's reports on pricing trends in academic monographic publishing. They derive this data from the books that were treated on the academic Approval Program during the previous year.
- Talk of the Trade 83
- by Barry Fast — Barry is back as a regular ATG columnist! He says that the Book Trade may not be as glitzy as The Industry (Hollywood), but there is more than enough gossip to share.
- Bet You Missed It 84
- by Pamela Rose — What do NASA and the National Science Foundation have in common? Read about it in this issue.
- Texas Trails 92
- Lost in Austin by Thomas Leonhardt — Tom is now in Austin and tells us he has not had the time or the courage to go looking for used book stores or some good, independent book sellers because he is still recovering from his move of 2,200 miles from Eugene, Oregon to Austin, Texas.

TECHNOLOGY AND STANDARDS

Edited by Sandra K. Paul and Albert Simmonds

- Devil's Advocate 85
- Variations on a Theme: NISO Z39.7, Library Statistics Standard by Bob Molyneux — The National Information Standards Organization (NISO) is in the process of developing the new version of the "standard" for library statistics (Z39.7). Bob attended the ALA convention in Atlanta, where the NISO committee gave a status report on the standard. Here's what he learned.
- Desperately Seeking Copyright 89
- Digital Object Identifiers: Just an Idea or an Innovation of Value? by Edward Collieran — The global groundswell for the adoption of yet another numbering system would appear to be
- underwhelming at best. After all, we already have ISBNs, URLs, EAN/UPCs and a plethora of other numbers. Why, indeed, should we invent another? But an unusual convergence of interests among librarians, researchers and publishers has, in fact, already propelled the new Digital Object Identifier (DOI) from an abstract concept to an operational numbering system.*
- Drinking From the Firehose 91
- SPAM SPAM SPAM: and MORE SPAM!!! What are we to do? by Eleanor I. Cook — It is only natural to ask, "how can we get around the problem of SPAM?" Is there any practical way to avoid it without compromising our civil liberties?

ETC.

- Adventures in Librarianship 90
- First Draft by Ned Kraft — Please edit before sending this to the dean!
