From Your (moving to a new place) Editor:

When I was a kid, we moved every year. My dad wasn't in the military he was a struggling graduate student cum professor following the best salary he could get for his family of five. Moving was fun but it was also stressful. You know, the new school, trying to make new friends and fit in. We finally settled in New Orleans for three years, hooray! But moved again to Richmond, Virginia, where we settled for two years until I went to college.

We are moving out of our house of 40 years on the Citadel campus. It's been a long run but we have managed and are all moved out! And ATG must go on despite all the chaos!

This issue has been guest edited by the gorgeous Nancy Maron on the theme of The Value of Publishing: What's Worth Paying for? There are papers from Dennis Lloyd (sifting and winnowing), Richard Carlin (building a list), Jenya Weinreb (editorial production), John Sherer (the dust jacket), Kathryn Conrad (community), Jessica Lawrence-Hurt (university presses), Susan Doerr (media), Becky Brasington Clark (accessibility), and Carey C. Newman (the book).

Our Op Ed is on Digital Golf Clubs and Back Talk is about the Frankfurt Book Fair. The Special Report is about the Charleston Conference inaugural Fast Pitch. Our interviews are with Stephen Rhind-Tutt and a multi-part perspective interview on video streaming. Our profiles encouraged section continues to grow with profiles of librarians, companies and presses. Tom and Regina have done their usual stellar jobs of reference and general book reviews, as well as Choice's Collecting to the Core. And we have a special Legally Speaking by Bill Hannay as well as Lolly's magnificent Copyright Q&A.

I am being paged to look over the house to make sure it is really empty (yes) and contractors to ask about what goes where (could that be a future Conference theme?). Happy New Year!! Love, Yr. Ed. 🐾

Editor's Note: In this issue we'd like to share some comments received regarding the 2016 Charleston Conference and Vendor Showcase. Many thanks to everyone for sharing your thoughts. — KS

Hi Katina — I'd be delighted to further share our work at Syracuse with the many readers of Against the Grain (among which I count myself). And thank you for the kind words about my presentation. More than any of us on stage, however, I think the real winner was the Charleston Conference itself. The Fast Pitch event — and the people behind it — were just another demonstration of why the conference's relevance continues to grow year after year.

Best, Scott Warren (Syracuse University Libraries) <sawarr01@syr.edu>

Toni and Leah — thanks so much for all the hard work you put into the annual meeting. I can speak for a lot of principals who agree with me that it is the most productive, concentrated event of the year.

Thank you again. Eric Calaluca (Paratext) <eric.calaluca@paratext.com>

Hi Leah / Toni — Congrats on another successful conference. I would love to get Credo in the main hall next year. We've been in the Pinkney and Gold Room last 2 years So if it's first in, wins ... we want to register asap!

Thanks, Ian Singer (Credo) <ian.singer@credoreference.com>

Enjoying the gorgeous weather and the beautiful city, and great conference!

Thanks, Tony Horava (University of Ottawa) <thorava@uottawa.ca>

Hello Toni — A quick question ... very premature but while it is on our minds: is there a way to request similar location in the Calhoun room again for the coming years? Traffic was great!

Thanks, Candace Mooney (WT Cox Information Services) <cmooney@wtcox.com>

Hi Toni — I heard great feedback from our reps that attended the Vendor Showcase last week. We definitely want to sign up, and try to get placement on the main floor.

Are you taking signups for 2017? If not yet, when should I reach back out to you?

In Charleston 2016, we introduced Fast Pitch, an opportunity for budding library and information entrepreneurs. We were looking for well-developed plans for new or improved services that will benefit the users of an academic or research library. Approaches for offering new types of library information, more effective use of existing resources, or special outreach to attract new users were all welcome. See this issue, p.46 for a full report! And we plan to have a 2017 Fast Pitch session in November 2017. Let's start brainstorming innovative ideas!

Speaking of the 2016 Charleston Conference, our wonderful video and audio engineer, Don Lewis (who films many of the sessions during the Conference) has secured the domain name ATGthePodcast.com and has
