From Your (biting my nails) Editor:

All right. We moved to the beach and we knew there might be hurricanes! But every other week or so in the fall? Talk about false advertising or I guess I should say false stupidity. We are hunkered in — surrounded by bottles of water, batteries, cans of food, sandbags, closed shutters, you name it! Here's hoping all will remain well.

As always we have a great print issue of ATG to read when the Internet is down or we have no connectivity in the air. Guest Editors Shannon L. Farrell and Kristen L. Mastel explore

Assessment in Libraries. This special issue of Against the Grain aims to examine some of the major issues and also provide incisive commentary from a range of contributors. We have papers by Craig E. Smith on enhancing the rigor of assessment, John Jackson on combining multiple data points to achieve a single indicator of success, Alison J. Head, Alaina C. Bull and Margy MacMillan introduce four levels of information literacy assessment — micro, meso, macro, and mega. The highlights of current print acquisitions and what this means for the future is the focus of Julie Rashid's contribution. Sunshine Carter and Yumiko Toyota-Kindler share their experience with post-cancellation access determination (PCAD). Emma Molls assesses the success of a library published journals program. Steven Bell, Marta Brunner, Jennifer Ferguson, Elliot Felix, Emily Kessler, Kelly Sanford, and David Woodbury explore the essential competencies needed for the Lib-GOAL Toolkit.

Scott Plutchak's Epistemology — Power, Control, and the Quest for Open Infrastructure is our OpEd. Jim O'Donnell's Back Talk has suggestions about bathrooms, and with this issue we introduce a new column Headwaters by Kent Anderson who talks about The Subversion of Referees.

Our interviews are with Karen Phillips and Kiren Shoman of Sage Publishing, Jason Dewland and Yvonne Mery from the University of Arizona, Theodore Pappas (Executive Editor and Chief Development Officer at Encyclopaedia Britannica), and Henry Owino (previously at Qatar National Library) now in a new position at University of New England.

Corey Seeman has masterfully merged reviews of online and print products in Reader's Roundup, Ann Doherty is collecting contemporary German-language novels, Donna Jacobs liked Liquidation, Anthony Paganelli is studying open educational resources, Ramune Kubilius reports about the 2018 Charleston Conference, Myer Kutz revisits Robert Maxwell and Pergamon Press, Don Hawkins and Leah Hinds visit ACRL, Mark Herring says reading is a muscle, Marketing Touchpoints by Jill Heinze is all about marketing and building bridges, Antje Mays wants to showcase new teaching tools, Jean Blackburn and Lisa Petrachenko talk about print archiving, and Michelle Flinchbaugh provides part two of a three part Biz of Digital series on repositories.

They are asking us to evacuate! Time to leave! Meanwhile, happy fall and see you online! Hugs, Yr. Ed. 🌻

Dear Editor:

It was nice to see the ATG with my interview in it in my mailbox. Am I correct that it's not online yet? In any case, could you provide me with a PDF of the final version (or point me to someone who can)?

Many thanks, Maria

Maria Bonn (Program Director, MS Library and Information Science, Associate Professor, School of Information Sciences, University of Illinois Urbana-Champaign) <mbonn@illinois.edu>

Dear Maria,

We're glad that you were pleased by the interview. You are correct. The interview should be available online in a few weeks so in the interim, I am copying Toni Nix our printer who can provide you with a PDF of the file.

Again, thank you for agreeing to do the interview. We enjoyed doing it too. — Yr. Ed. 🌻
