Connect with superior service.

Make the connection to YBP with FOLIO
FOLIO, YBP's on-line information service, is an extension of our commitment to superior service through quality book fulfillment, technology, and personal attention. Now, you can access YBP files via the Internet as well as connect with your customer service representative and bibliographer via E-mail.

Internet Access
Approval plan customers: you have been connected via direct dial access since March 1992. Now, you can connect with YBP through the Internet or via direct dial access, whichever is more convenient for your library. FOLIO currently provides access to the YBP approval plan database with acquisitions and bibliographic information for all types of approval material, including: titles on order with publishers, titles currently in-process, and titles that have been shipped on approval over the past twelve months. View complete bibliographic data and book/price selections. Enter orders and transmit via the Internet.

Connect to YBP with Electronic Mail
E-mail enthusiasts: now you can “talk” with your YBP customer service representative, bibliographer, sales representative, and technical support staff with E-mail via the Internet. E-mail your correspondence, orders, claims, or requests for information. We will respond with the same personal attention you have come to expect from YBP.

In Partnership with Libraries
Working in partnership with the library and publishing communities, YBP has embraced expanding technology while remaining firmly committed to personalized service. Over the past ten years, we have developed a number of technical services, including:

- Electronic ordering with our software or via acquisitions system interfaces
- For books and notification slips supplied: Library of Congress MARC records, YBP bibliographic records in MARC format, and Innovative Interfaces bibliographic record transmission
- Machine-readable management reporting

We will continue to develop FOLIO and our other technical services to meet your library’s needs.

"This work is a monumental achievement...this new effort is one of the most important reference tools in higher education...An impressive work, organized to render it invaluable to scholars in many disciplines." –Choice

Editors-In-Chief:
Burton R. Clark, Allan M Cartter Professor of Higher Education and Sociology and Chairman of the Comparative Higher Education Research Group, University of California, Los Angeles, USA; Vice-President of the National Academy of Education
Guy Neave, Director of Research, International Association of Universities, Paris, France; Editor, Journal of Higher Education

Not since 1978 has there been such an in-depth look at the higher education systems around the world as will be brought to you in the ENCYCLOPEDIA OF HIGHER EDUCATION. This is the only up-to-date and comprehensive review of higher education worldwide, with references through 1991.

- A four volume major reference work with over 300 articles totalling more than two million words
- Descriptions and analyses of 135 national higher education systems
- A completely new, comprehensive review of the state of higher education from an international perspective
- Over 165 theoretical and analytical articles written by internationally recognized experts
- Essential for university teachers, students of education, and education researchers as well as government officials, administrators, and anyone concerned with higher education

no matter what your size.

Whether your order is for a thousand books or just one, whether you are a prestigious university, medical school, or a little-known junior college, every Ballen customer receives our legendary one-to-one customized service. That means you’ll have a personal Ballen customer service representative to answer questions, report status and solve problems. You’ll have a specific location in our staging area for maximum quality control. You’ll have instant access to important information through BallenNet™, our interactive on-line service for order entry data and current order status. Even direct telephone access to a Ballen corporate officer, if necessary.

And despite our elephantine inventory of over 100,000 titles, with thousands of books shipped every week, our return rate squeaks in at less than 1% — the industry’s lowest.

Find out how you can reap the big benefits of Ballen’s personal service. Call Toll-Free (800) 645-5237 or Fax (516) 864-5850.

The needs of the end-user to keep abreast of the latest research has prompted widespread development and expansion of current awareness products. These rapidly-produced information access tools have the sole goal of facilitating awareness of newly published research in important core journals such as Journal of Chromatography, Nuclear Physics and Journal of Econometrics. In this segment of Information on Information, we describe the various formats developed by Elsevier Science Publishers to serve this specific need of our end-user community.

Elsevier Science Publishers takes seriously its responsibilities as a publisher to offer researchers access to printed scientific information as rapidly as possible. One response to this obligation is the creation of a number of current awareness products tied either to a specific journal or a cluster of journals, alerting the scientist to top-quality article publication data before or simultaneously with publication of the print copy. This information may be transmitted without charge to the scientist either in print or in electronic form, thereby facilitating his or her ability to identify articles for particular research needs.

Elsevier's current awareness products come in a variety of formats - printed booklets of collected tables of contents or listings of accepted manuscripts, newspaper formats offering both full text of selected articles and abstracts of all forthcoming papers in a specific journal, and finally, electronic databases of accepted and published papers accessible through network services.
listing of key metallic elements referenced in the articles accepted. Additionally there is an index indicating volume number and page numbers for locating any particular paper.

- INJEC—This printed booklet draws attention to forthcoming articles in the Journal of Electroanalytic Chemistry, covering electrode kinetics, interfacial structure, properties of electrolyte colloids and biological electrochemistry. Papers accepted for this journal are listed by manuscript number but can be located through an author index and an index to scheduled publication.

- Current Titles in the Journal of Alloys and Compounds is similar to INJEC above but covers materials science. The publication offers information regarding accepted manuscripts.

- In the field of engineering and technology, we offer the publication Spotlights On Sensors and Actuators A and B, as an awareness service for the sensor community. Spotlights offers abstracts of papers published in Sensors and Actuators A: Physical and Sensor and Actuators B: Chemical. Actual tables of contents for specific volumes are given along with abstracts of each article listed.

- In the disciplines of mathematics and computer science, Access to Numerical Computing lists papers accepted by eight mathematics-related titles, including Mathematics and Computers in Simulation and Journal of Computational and Applied Mathematics. The booklet also provides indices to authors and scheduled publication data. More closely related to computer science is the Artificial Intelligence Pipeline. Similar in arrangement to Access to Numerical Computing, AI Pipeline covers the papers accepted by such journals as Artificial Intelligence, Neurocomputing and Pattern Recognition Letters with indices to authors and scheduled publication data.

- Most recently Colloids and Surfaces Preview has been launched for the journals, Advances in Colloid and Interface Science and Colloids and Surfaces from our Chemistry and Chemical Engineering program. Distributed free of charge to readers of the journals and other interested scientists, the newsletter contains lists of papers accepted for publication, with both an author and keyword index.

Chemical Geology, thus serving our authors by quickly bringing their articles to the attention of several thousand colleagues worldwide.

Economics Alert is a newspaper which covers 28 economics and finance journals published by Elsevier under the North-Holland imprint. Due to its extensive coverage, Economics Alert focuses on publishing full tables of contents, with only a few full text articles (1-2 per issue) reprinted. Special issues receive particular attention in this Alert, as reprints of editorial introductions appear along with the abstract of each article within the issue.

CONCLUSION

Clearly Elsevier’s commitment to this effort is broad-based throughout a multitude of disciplines and covers many important journals. In every instance, these services to the individual researcher are intended to ease the burden of “keeping abreast in one’s field” in as flexible a fashion as possible while enhancing the value of the journal to the scientific community at large.
Get the articles you need quickly and easily.

Introducing Faxon Finder table of contents and Faxon Xpress document delivery services.

As easily as you could pull a journal from your shelf, you can order an article for delivery with Faxon Xpress™. Start by choosing from among our 9,000 journal titles and 2.5 million articles available in the Faxon Finder™ database. Then simply press the order key from the menu. It’s that easy to get speedy delivery of your articles.

Specially developed software and scanning workstations are used to send documents, ensuring the highest resolution and legibility possible. And your scanned articles can be delivered to any common fax machine. Best of all, Faxon Xpress pays a fee to the publisher for each copy of a copyrighted article.

The world's leading investigators contribute their expertise in this new volume which presents the most current and comprehensive research on spheroidal carbon clusters (fullerenes). Few areas of chemical research have attracted the attention of the scientific community as have the fullerenes. The interest has crossed the disciplines of physics, chemistry, and materials science. Buckminsterfullerenes itself has been named the Molecule of the Year in the December 20, 1991 issue of Science. Organized into four sections: The Main Events Leading to the Discovery and Preliminary Studies of the Fullerenes; Theoretical Studies of Fulleroid Cages; Superconductivity Properties; and Exo-and Endohedral Complexes and Some Chemical Properties of These New Materials, Buckminsterfullerenes discusses new insights and possible directions for future research.

Unraveling DNA provides both laymen and scientist readers with a concise highly readable understanding of the structure, properties, and functions of the DNA molecule. The reader will find answers, to all major questions about the biological, biotechnological, medical, physical, chemical, and mathematical aspects of DNA. In addition, the book includes an historical retrospective of past DNA research and forecasts future trends in the field.

Written by an internationally acclaimed professor of biophysics as well as one of the world's leading authorities in the field of DNA research, Unraveling DNA is designed to help professionals not specializing in molecular biology to understand the recent advances in this rapidly expanding field. The book is also especially useful to advanced high school students, junior college students, and university students interested in modern biology, medicine, physics, chemistry, and mathematics.
