The John Dewey Society for the Study of Education and Culture exists to keep alive Dewey's commitment to the use of critical and reflective intelligence in the search for solutions to critical problems in education and culture. We subscribe to no one set of doctrines, but in the spirit of Dewey, we welcome controversy, respect dissent, and encourage the responsible discussion of issues of special concern to educators. We also promote open minded, critical reconsiderations of Dewey's influential ideas about democracy, education, and philosophy.

Education and Culture is published twice a year by the John Dewey Society and the University of Iowa. It aims to serve the needs of the scholars who take an integrated view of philosophical, historical, and sociological issues and problems in the field of educational studies. Members of the John Dewey Society receive Education and Culture as part of their membership dues. See the back of the journal for membership information. Nonmember subscriber rates are $12.00 annually. Make all checks out to the John Dewey Society. Nonmember annual subscriptions should be sent to: Peter Hlebowitsh, 256 Lindquist Center N., Curriculum and Instruction, The University of Iowa, Iowa City, IA 52242.

All editorial correspondence (manuscripts, letters to the editor, essay length rejoinders, and so on) should be addressed to: Peter Hlebowitsh, 256 Lindquist Center N., University of Iowa, Iowa City, IA 52242-1529.

Cover by Dennis Fehr.
Contents

Leta Stetter Hollingworth and the Speyer School, 1935-1940: Historical Roots of the Contradictions in Progressive Education for Gifted Children

Rose A. Rudnitski

Alice Miel and Democratic Schooling: An Early Curriculum Leader's Ideas on Social Learning and Social Studies

Elizabeth Anne Yeager

Does "The Knowing" Alter "The Known"? On the Troublesome Relation of Facts and Ideas in a Deweyan Epistemology

Chris McCarthy

Democratic Schooling: Toward a Renewed End-in-View

Matthew D. Davis