Hello. My name is Andrew "Flip" Filipowski and, as Chairman and CEO of divine, inc., I’m pleased to be writing this message to the present, past and future clients of divine/Faxon Library Services. As most of you know, divine officially acquired RoweCom/Faxon on November 6th, 2001. In the months leading up to the acquisition and since that time, I have been privileged to work with the management and staff of the Faxon Library Services team. I want to let you know how impressed I have been with the professionalism and dedication of these colleagues and how much I have learned about the library business from them.

I am here to tell you that divine/Faxon Library Services is now backed by an organization with a substantial cash position, providing a solid financial foundation for continued growth and innovation. We at divine are committed to the continuation and enhancement of your traditional print and electronic subscription services, and we look forward to working with the experienced and knowledgeable Faxon employees that you know and respect. In addition, we bring to the table a large and talented organization dedicated to solving the information challenges of academic institutions and corporations with first-class technology and service. This combination will be hard to beat.

We recognize that the Faxon brand is a meaningful one with a long history signifying quality and service to libraries and are proud to have it continued as part of divine. By acquiring RoweCom/Faxon, divine is making a commitment to develop the most advanced content offerings in the industry for libraries and their clientele in all markets. As always, high quality client service to both libraries and publishers will be our goal.

I hope to have the opportunity to meet many of you in the next few months. Please do not hesitate to share your questions and ideas with the divine/Faxon staff.

Kindest regards,

Visit divine/Faxon Library Services at Booth #3918 at ALA!

We may not be the most well-known book distributor, but we do seem to be very popular.

Our customers know about those big book distributors on Wall Street, but they keep coming back for our friendly service here on Main Street.

We may not be one of the corporate giants of the world, but that's just fine with us. Our focus has always been service, not size. We wanted our family business to exhibit the same values of our own family, like hard work, generosity, and kindness. We take good care of the libraries and other customers we serve by tracking down each and every book they request, triple checking orders for accuracy, and making sure we are always available to talk to them in person. We've made it a policy to treat our customers like friends, and as a result, many of them are.

AIP Conference Proceedings are now online

AIP’s Conference Proceedings series is now available online at http://proceedings.aip.org, beginning with number 500 (January 2000). Institutions that place a Standing Order for all Conference Proceedings will receive online access to the full text of every available online volume. Online access will allow users to enjoy many of the benefits of online publishing free of charge. They can browse tables of contents and link to abstracts of articles. They can search for articles by topic, title, or author, and refine searches by including dates or selecting a portion of a bibliographic record. (Searches made in AIP’s abstracts database cover articles back to 1975.) In addition, they’ll be able to collect articles by clicking on those that interest them and storing them in a virtual filing cabinet.

Ask us about consortia licensing!

Access the full-text of AIP journals back to 1985

In January 2002, the American Institute of Physics adds six additional years of electronic files to its online archive, extending access to its large body of scientific literature back to 1985. (In 2001, the backfile covered 1991-1996; in 2002, it will cover 1985-1996.) This impressive amount of newly digitized material will provide researchers with access to more than 50,000 articles never before available online.

You can access the expanded archive version of most journals for a $50 annual maintenance fee. For The Journal of Chemical Physics and Journal of Applied Physics, the fee is $75. Despite twice as many years of coverage, the price is the same as in 2001.
