ATG Deadlines

Editor
Greetings and Happy Holidays! Your editor is locked in the throngs of a monumental library move. The College of Charleston Library is only moving a block away but, my goodness, that’s significant when you’re moving thousands of books. Hallertown Movers have been fantastic.

Meanwhile, back at the ATG house, we have been putting together the December issue. Chris Ferguson of Furman University has been a life-saver in this issue, which is on the new “new” collection development, we have the Charleston Conference keynote paper from Mike Keller, “Deconstructing collection development.” Other papers are from Milton T. Wolf, Jennifer Knevel, Heather Wicht and Lynn Silipigni Connaway, Lynn Johnson Corcoran and Charles Marlor, Erica Schwartz, and Heather Miller. And there are some first-hand reports from people who attended the conference. (And the proceedings book will be published by Greenwood Press/Libraries Unlimited in 2005, watch for them.) And, in this issue, we also have an interview with Amy Knapp, Harriet Bell, Warren Holder, and Spencer de Groot about Scopus. And there are also some great columns dealing with institutional digital repositories (Ann Lally), human resources management (John Fenner & Audrey Fenner), eliminating low-value tasks (Rick Lugg), and ISBN-13 (Eric Thronsdon). That’s just the tip of the iceberg. Or should I say, “moving cart.”

Speaking of moving, there are shelves to be adjusted, nacks and crannies to be dusted, and chairs to be relocated. Everywhere there’s something to do!

Happy New Year and see you in Boston! Yr. Ed.

Editor’s Note: Sure! Back issues of ATG are available at $10 per issue. Send orders to <kstrach@comcast.net>.

Dear Editor:

Good morning!

I have just read the September 2004 edition of ATG (the Reference Publishing issue) [v.166#4] and have found it so enlightening that I’d like to buy a couple of copies to share with some of my remote colleagues. Is that possible?

Thanks much, Nat Bruning, Publisher Relations Manager YBP Library Services, Conoocoo, NC 03229

This is from Chemical and Engineering News, December 10, 2004 — “ACS Takes Legal Action Against Google — Google search service is said to infringe SciFinder Scholar trademark” by Aalok Mehta <a_meha@acs.org>. A complaint was filed on December 9 in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia contending that...”Google’s use of the trademark ‘Scholar’ for its Google Scholar literature-search engine constitutes trademark infringement and unfair competition.”
