frequently asked questions

What is the MLA International Bibliography?
The MLA International Bibliography is a bibliography of journal articles, books, and dissertations. It is published by the Modern Language Association, a hundred-year-old not-for-profit organization committed to the study and teaching of language and literature.

Who uses the MLA International Bibliography?
The bibliography is the research tool for college and university scholars and students. Increasingly it serves high school students and teachers and people who like to read about literature.

What material is included in the bibliography?
Over 4,000 journals are regularly indexed for inclusion in the bibliography, as are books from over 1,000 publishers. Scholars from universities throughout the world contribute material in their areas of expertise.

Where do indexing terms come from?
The Modern Language Association has drawn on the work of scholars to compile a thesaurus of over 45,000 topical terms and 327,000 names that reflect the state of current research. New concepts are regularly added to the thesaurus.

Who indexes the entries?
Indexing is done by specialists with advanced degrees in literature, language, folklore, and linguistics. The bibliography's New York indexing staff has a total of 163 years' experience.

What languages are indexed?
While the majority of entries are in the English language, at least 60 other languages are represented in the index, including Arabic, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Latvian, Norwegian, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swedish, and Turkish. The material we index comes from all over the globe; coverage is truly international.

ENLIGHTENMENT

Four volume set
Editor in Chief: Alan Charles Kors, University of Pennsylvania

Oxford University Press is pleased to announce a new reference source of unrivaled scope and authority covering the Enlightenment—the time between the late 17th century and the early 19th century—when sweeping changes were made in intellectual development.

Written by a group of international contributors, the four volumes of the Encyclopedia of the Enlightenment encompass the entire range of philosophic and social changes wrought by this period.

Extending the conventional geographical boundaries of the Enlightenment, the Encyclopedia covers major centers like Paris in France and Edinburgh in Scotland, along with “secondary” and “provincial” centers such as Bordeaux and Aberdeen, Philadelphia and Milan. Including feminist and various post-modernist reassessments alongside more traditional perspectives, the four volumes offer the broadest possible range of current knowledge.

Accessibility combined with scholarly rigor make the Encyclopedia the first choice for researching any aspect of the Enlightenment.

AMR FEATURES:
- Retrospectives by respected authors looking back on their work and areas of interest
- Review articles by authors from around the world
- AMR’s scope encompasses mechanics topics across the engineering sciences spectrum, such as fluid and solid mechanics, heat transfer, dynamics and vibration
- 20-25 book reviews in every issue – no other journal reviews as many books per issue
- 35-40 books notes in every issue which describe newly published books
- Access to the AMR Journal Article Abstracts Database, containing 250,000 records with about 2000 being added monthly
