Something’s Gotta Give!

What do y’all think of it? Comments welcome. Greg Tananbaum (lyrics) and Jack Montgomery (recording artist) are already on board. Comments?

And the 31st Charleston Conference CALL FOR PAPERS is already up and we have several submissions already! Come on down. http://www.katina.info/conference

Was just talking by email to a first time attendee at the XXX Charleston Conference last November – Judy K. Schwartz (Director of Library Services, Trocaire College in Buffalo, NY). Did you know that Judy’s profile is posted under First Time Attendees Profiles on the Conference Website? This was an idea we had at the last minute last year so we didn’t get everyone’s profile but stay tuned for more this year now that we have some lead (i.e., pester) time. http://www.katina.info/conference

Judy (above) has sure been busy. She tells me that she has been a first-time conference attendee three times in the space of thirteen months. When I asked her if it was snowing there in Buffalo, she told me that one of the local TV stations had a T-shirt contest some years ago about snow. The winner: It’s Buffalo!! It’s Snows!! Get over it!! She says it’s still cold there. It does get so hot here in Charleston that we think about snow… http://www.wivwb.com/subindex/weather

Speaking about weather, while some people are digging out of snow (or sand castles) John Long is still participating in the Save the Bay Swims. And he still loves to write poetry. See one of his poems in this issue p.14. http://www.savebay.org/Page.aspx?pid=1342&fccrl=1

Got a note from Doug LaFrenier of the American Institute of Physics recently. Of course we all knew he said he was going to retire, but, you know, he actually went ahead and did it! Doug was a joy to work with and to have at the Charleston Conferences. We will miss him and hope that he will come back and visit. His new email address is: delafrenier@gmail.com.

Next time we are in New York City, let’s drop in and see him!

Speaking of retirement, you all know that my magnificent boss Bob Neville retired in June. He is now babysitting grandkids, visiting his place in New Hampshire, and rescuing turtles on Folly Beach! Doesn’t sound too bad. But I am NOT retiring. I cannot tell a lie. The powers that be talked me into taking the Asst. Dean for Tech Services and Collection Development position at the College of Charleston Addlestone Library in the meantime.

The indefatigable Mary Massey talks about retirement in this issue, p.43. She says she’ll be retiring for the third time! Third time’s a charm? Well, I am NOT retiring at least if I can help it. Not yet. Can’t resist this quote from Bette Davis — “I will not retire while I’ve still got my legs and my make-up box.”

Hear via the grapevine that Knut Dorn is going to retire end of this year. Knut has been a constant in our environment since I entered it! (Remember when I gave him a cactus plant as a present at the Charleston Conference many years ago? And he still came back!). ATG interviewed Knut back in February of 1995 (v.7#1) and Tina Feick and I are hoping for another interview sixteen years later. How about it, Knut?

And, just heard from Tina Feick that Harrassowitz is going to sponsor another scholarship for the 31st Charleston Conference! It’s great to know so early. We have several international travelers who would like continued on page 20 of Huddersfield outlining the development of the Open Access E-Resources Management Handbook, (co-edited by ATG favorite, the inimitable Rick Anderson). Now in its fifth year, it is proving highly popular both as a practical manual and reference guide, including articles ranging from a beginner’s guide to working with vendors to a treatise on the applications of RDF for e-resource discovery — both of which feature in the top downloaded chapters in 2010.

Many of us volunteer our precious spare time to serve on committees in the belief we are giving something back, or making a difference, to the communities we work in and alongside. Kate Price’s article will provide anyone in the position of chairing such a committee with a toolkit to underpin what she describes as a “root and branch” review of just how well the committee is meeting its aims. Additionally it will help to decide whether the committee is robust and diverse enough to survive the current tough times with reduced resources, fewer staff, and more pressure on our day jobs.

Finally, in addition to offering my heartfelt thanks to all of the authors, I would like to thank Katina for the opportunity to highlight the international projects that the UKSG is involved with — if you would like any further information on any of the issues raised, please do not hesitate to contact me <bev.acreman@biomedcentral.com> or Tony Kidd, Chair, UKSG <tony.kidd@glasgow.ac.uk>.

Bev Acreman is the Commercial Director at BioMed Central and Publications Officer for UKSG.
